CHORALISTS SCORE IN THE CRUCIFIXION

Carmel can do anything it makes up its mind to do. This was never more conclusively proven than upon last Friday afternoon when the newly organized Arts and Craft's Choral Society gave a rendition of Stainer's master-work, "The Crucifixion", at the Forest Theatre. The oratorio was far more than creditably sung. It was very well sung, indeed. The music of "The Crucifixion" is truly great music. It is inspired, and the dramatic episodes are revealed with an intensity that is compelling—gripping.

An unusual thing happened last Friday. The sky had been overcast most of the day, but despite this a splendid audience of some three hundred people ventured forth to hear the performance. Thomas Vincent Cator, the director, lifted his baton to begin the overture at about five minutes past three. Then the singing began and proceeded with fine effect. Miss Blanche De Serpa's clear, beautiful soprano voice was wooing the reverent pines with the thrilling melody of "The Mystery of the Divine Humiliation", when suddenly the mist, which had been overhanging the theatre, turned to a gentle rain which soon increased into quite a downpour. The singer did not hesitate for an instant but proceeded with her solo, and though it rained from that time on to the conclusion of the performance the singers and orchestra continued in their places and the dramatic music unfolded with even added impressiveness. Only a handful of people left the theatre.

The audience sat through the entire performance with the rain beating upon them incessantly, and right here be it said that no greater compliment could have been paid to either the singers or director.

The choral numbers were all well rendered and phrased with intelligence and discrimination as to tonal balance.

The number which pleased perhaps more than anything else was the duet between Blanche De Serpa and Marian Boke. Never has Miss Boke's voice been heard to greater advantage. Her tones were round and full as well as sympathetic, and her reading was given with fine dramatic feeling. The two voices blended perfectly, and the entire number is deserving of the highest commendation.

Miss De Serpa's solo also charmed the audience. She has gained in power and brilliance since last heard in Carmel.

Sam Miller's voice was a surprise and a delight. He lacks power, but his tones have a carrying quality and are mellow.

Hal Bragg has a very good natural voice and delivered his numbers most acceptably.

Several of the heavier bass solos were handled by C. C. Baker of Salinas.

F. P. Foster handled his numbers very creditably.

Rev. F. G. Williams, who played the piano, is deserving of all kinds of credit, both for his work at the performance and during the rehearsals.

Mrs. Irene Cator's work with the violin was outstandingly good, and praise is also due Mr. Cosmay, the clarinetist; and Mr. Cummings, trombonist.

Let's keep up the good work.

Forest Theatre Executive Makes Known Needs of Organization

WITH the approach of the annual producing period in the Forest Theatre, demand arises for a more general co-operation on the part of the community in the work involved.

Edward G. Kuster, chairman of the Board of directors, has addressed a letter to the editor of the Pine Cone, which is presented herewith:

IN the coming Forest Theatre play an Egyptian asks of Caesar, "Would you destroy the past?" and Caesar answers, "Ay, and build the future on its ruins!" All of which is apropos of the ancient feuds that were mainly responsible for the dilapidated condition of Carmel's Forest Theatre at the time the present board took hold. These mouldy grudges would offer a serious handicap to present day workers in the theatre if we should allow ourselves to be lined up by this or that zealot in behalf of some dead-and-buried cause.

According to an editorial in a recent issue of the Pine Cone, you seem to feel hopeful. Mr. Editor, that community drama will be "the one great activity of Carmel that may unite all the inhabitants in one common effort." Just so—it may. But it will not accomplish this happy result until Carmel's attention and energy shall be directed solely to the business in hand, its back turned forever on the antiquated quarrels which constitute our heritage from a somewhat turid dramatic past.

There is in Carmel a group of earnest workers, many of them comparatively newcomers, that are giving unstintedly of their time and ability in a genuinely unselfish endeavor to make "Caesar and Cleopatra" a splendid production and a credit to the community. Whoever allies himself or herself with these people will be too busily and pleasantly engaged to find time for the wearisome rehashing of the complicated series of motheaten and threadbare charges and countercharges which make up Carmel's checkered dramatic history. These belong to a dim antiquity into which the workers at the theatre are far too busy to poke around.

Happily, signs of a change are at hand. Our interest has been aroused by the words of Perry Newberry, quoted in your editorial, to the effect that if his bitterest enemy were producing at the Forest Theatre he would "get behind and boost if need arose." Good! A five-year vacation from the Forest Theatre is long enough, old-timer; and as for your "bitterest enemy"—pshaw, we mustn't take ourselves so seriously. So, ancient hero of many a lively fracas in Forest Theatre "politics," follow up your words, fall into line, and keep step. You are needed in the Forest Theatre, and so is all of Carmel. It is true, you still pound the table loudly and often in support of your quaint notion that a non-resident professional should produce our big "community" play, but that question is not in issue, as far as the coming summer program is concerned. After many months' consideration the governing board acted, and all the plays are in course of preparation. The Forest Theatre's own production, "Caesar and Cleopatra," will be directed by Carmel residents, with a Carmel cast; the Mission Play will be privately financed, will be directed by Garnet Holme, and will be acted, in the main, by professionals brought here by Mr. Holme; and the board has assigned to yourself and Tom Cator, free of all cost to you, the use of the theatre on the dates you applied for; here's success to you both, and may the new opera, "Aladdin," bring you fame and fortune."

Mr. Editor, addressing myself again to you: Your editorial voices the belief that the Forest Theatre "belongs to the whole people rather than to any organization." In a rhetorical sense this is quite true. But it should be true in every sense. Ownership by the whole people, no less than by individuals or organizations, entails corresponding responsibility.

At present a mere handful of people, paying a dollar a year dues, aid the association in paying off the land purchase contract; a smaller group, forming the producing staff and cast, will, as usual, undertake the responsibility for putting on the annual community play. Yet all Carmel enjoys nation-wide credit on account of Forest Theatre productions. Every man and women in Carmel should be a paying member of the Forest Theatre Society—it is a debt owing to the community.

The board confronts the immediate necessity of tearing out the defective, unsafe and inadequate electric wiring of the theatre stage and replacing the same with new equipment. The funds on hand will not suffice for this purpose, yet the success of the summer program and the credit of the community hinge on the new installation. May I use your columns to urge that the active members of the society at once send in their annual dues, one dollar, to Wm. T. Kibbler, treasurer? And that everyone else, in or out of Carmel, who is in sympathy with the purposes of the Forest Theatre, join the association without delay? The first year's dues, including initiation, are only two dollars; annual dues thereafter, one dollar. Send your name and first year's dues to Susan Porter, Secretary. No further formalities are required.

Richard Hardy Dies at Pasadena

Friends of Richard Hardy will be grieved to learn of his death March 24th, in Pasadena, for he had endeared himself to many during his visits to Carmel as the guest of Mrs. L. L. Peabody, in the Wendy Cottage on Camino Real, and again last summer when he occupied the Williamson Studio on Carmelo with his artist friend, Frederick Zimmerman. Their delightful studio in Pasadena at 225 Los Robles Avenue, is one of the literary and artistic centers of that city and there the charm and fine personality of Richard Hardy was felt by all whose good fortune brought them into intimate contact with him. Deepest sympathy is expressed for Frederick Zimmerman who has lost his closest friend and constant companion of many years—ever since their college days together at the University of California.

SHAPING UP FOR MAY DAY FESTIVITIES

The May Fete of Carmel-by-the-Sea, with an executive staff headed by Mrs. Mary E. Hand and composed of Jeanne Burton, De Neale Morgan, Perry Newberry and Joseph W. Hand, treasurer, has begun preparations for the street fair which will be held on Saturday, May 13. Sub-committees are being organized, and the program made up. The contest for Queen of the May, with candidates from four to forty years of age, starts next Monday, April 24.

Candidates may be placed in nomination at Sieven's store, by the payment of twenty-five cents; subsequent votes are five cents apiece, and may be purchased at either candy store, Mrs. Hand's, Sievin's, or the Pine Cone office. Votes should be cast at Sievin's, or in the ballot box in front of the store.

Among the attractions already under way are the minstrel show at Arts and Crafts Hall in the evening; the dog show in the afternoon; the May Pole dance in the morning, just after the parade; baseball games and other sports in afternoon, with a 10-cent dance hall going all the while. And this is merely the beginning of the many attractions.

UNIVERSITY CLUB OF MONTEREY COUNTY TO DINE AT DEL MONTE

Men and women who have attended a university or college for one year or more are invited to attend the annual spring banquet of the University Club of Monterey County at Del Monte, tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Letters have been mailed to members of the club and all others who were present at the last dinner, but as the affair is for the purpose of bringing university people together for a social good time, the committee in charge of the dinner is issuing this general invitation so as to reach all university people who may not be on its mailing lists. Any eligible person wishing to attend should send word to E. L. Van Dellen, president of the club, Salinas, California, together with the number of reservations wanted. Wives or husbands of university people are also cordially invited.

The dinner at Del Monte Thursday is the annual spring banquet of the University Club of Monterey County, and to it all men and women who have attended college one year, together with their wives and husbands, are invited. The cost of the dinner is $2.50 a plate. All who wish to renew the old college spirit at this "get together" should send word to E. L. Van Dellen, president of the club, Salinas, so as to make reservations.

Transportation will be provided for all who wish it. Mention whether you wish it or not when you make your reservations. The cost of the dinner is $2.50 per plate. A well-known speaker will be provided, also music. After the banquet there will be dancing.

The spirit of the banquet is informal, its purpose being to express college friendliness. People from many different sections of the county have already signified their intention of attending.

REAL ESTATE AND BUILDING ACTIVITIES

The Carmel Realty Company report the following sales: "The Pines" large two-story house on Ninth and Dolores, originally built by Architect Willis Polk and owned by I. H. Morse of San Francisco. It was bought by George Walker. Ten lots in Forest Hill Addition to W. A. Haas, San Francisco, candy man; two lots in Forest Hill to Dr. L. M. Place of Palo Alto; and two lots corner of First Avenue and San Carlos to Reverend H. O. Brewster of Modesto.

Walter Basham has added an apartment to the rear of his building on Ocean Avenue. This gives him extra living quarters and provides for additional room for the store.

Miss Stella Guichard expects to be in her new quarters by May 1st. The building is coming along fast and has the distinction of having the first tiled roof on Ocean Avenue.

The addition to "Cabbages and Kings" is finished and is in keeping with the rest of the establishment. It gives Mr. Glassell about triple the amount of floor space that he had and enables him to show his stock to much better advantage.

At present he has Ralph Pearson's etchings and invites the general public to inspect them at any time. Mr. Glassell is making a trip to San Francisco shortly to select a classy line of furniture. Ladies' tweed suits will be added soon. He has everything now but the "sealing-wax" and is probably making arrangements to put a nice line of that in shortly.

AUTO INFO

Interesting new literature setting forth the merits of the various types of Studebaker cars has just been issued. A number of these cars have been sold in Carmel recently. See Hal Bragg, the local dealer, about prices, terms, etc.

Attention is directed to the Hudson and Essex motor car advertisement in this issue. The prices quoted are remarkably low for a dependable car. But what is most noticeable is the small increased price for a closed car over the open car price.

Preparations Complete For Grant's Birthday Celebration

The program for the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of General U. S. Grant's birth, which falls on Thursday, April 27th, is complete, announces Col. T. R. Weaver of Pacific Grove.

The event is to be an all Peninsula affair, and will be held at Monterey Presidio. Col. John M. Jenkins has placed himself and command at the disposal of the G. A. R., and will be one of the speakers.

The exercises will begin at 10:30. The intention is to have a speaker from each of the Peninsula cities and from Salinas. Perry Newberry will represent Carmel.

That Memorial

Editor Pine Cone:

How about the monument to those who served in the World War? Are the people of Carmel-by-the-Sea willing to be known as "quitters?" I cannot believe it; and yet for months the memorial on Ocean avenue has been serving as a daily reminder that we have failed to finish what we started with such fine enthusiasm on last Armistice Day.

We cannot afford to allow the partly finished memorial remain a monument not to those who served, but to our own neglect, indifference, or ineffectiveness.

Finish the memorial! Let's go!

Trustees-elect Take Their Seats and Commissionerships Are Chosen

THE Kink is dead—long live the Kink. The adjourned regular meeting of the city board of trustees on Monday evening was unusually electric. Good nature and expectancy were in the air Many friends of the incoming trustees were outside the rail. The old board attended to a few minor matters, such as receiving from the Carmel Development Co. the balance of the money for the purchase of the sand dunes and canvassing election returns. Through it all everybody was waiting tensely for the dramatic moment when the trustees-elect should answer "I do."

Mike Murphy tried to kill time by looking interestedly over a map; Court Arne appeared bored. Tom Reardon buried his tired head in his hands. "Doc" Kibbler wore his most judicial air—also a new spring suit, while George Dorwart adjusted the lights and made motions and things.

Everybody looked terribly serious. The city clerk wore a bunch of posies in honor of the occasion, and she became so excited that she almost swore—Perry Newberry in for the four-year term instead of the two. We tremble to think of the complications that might have resulted. It was probably due to some clever manipulation on Perry's part. Anyway, it gives us all a string upon which to hang future criticism. However, City Attorney Campbell saved the situation by having Saidee alter the wording of the oath. It was a great night for the Duke of Argyll. He had something to do every minute. He rose to really dramatic heights when he said to the new members, "You may sit down." Then he allowed them to sign their names to something, and then he hunted up Captain Maxwell's overcoat.

William L. Maxwell was elected chairman of the board. It was decided to appoint the new commissioners and someone suggested an adjournment in order to caucus the situation. Trustee Newberry asked for an open discussion of it then and there, and the members of the board expressed their desires.

Miss Helen Parkes chose "Light and Water, and "Bill Kibbler "Fire and Police." Tom Reardon said out loud and strong, "I don't want 'Streets'—that's a cinch." So "Streets, Sidewalks and Parks" was wished on Perry, and Tom was contented with "Health and Safety," a perfectly innocuous job pending another outbreak of flu or the congestion in traffic caused by one of Bob Leidig's bargain sales.

During the ceremonies Henry Larouette said in a stage whisper that Fred Wermuth had his hearse outside to bury the dead—but it wasn't needed—the corpses were all too lively.

The meeting adjourned to next Tuesday evening.

LATE PERSONAL

Mrs. Argyll Campbell's sister, Miss Charlotte Phelps, accompanied by Miss Eleanor Richards, spent last week visiting the Campbells.

Wilhelmina Ramer, teacher of art in the San Jose High School, spent Easter vacation in Carmel. She enjoyed a number of sketching trips.

Mrs. M. A. Graham, sister of Mrs. Lotta Shipley, motored up from Los Angeles one day last week. Mrs. Shipley then accompanied her sister to Piedmont for a few days' visit.

Hon. Lyman J. Gage, his wife and sister-in-law, Miss Helen Richards, arrived in Carmel last Monday, having motored from Los Angeles. They were "chauffered" by Kanuelo Searle. The purpose of the trip by Mr. Gage was to inspect Mr. Searle's completed bust of Grant Wallice. He returned south on Tuesday, while the rest of party motored to San Francisco.

ANNOUNCEMENT TO ADVERTISERS

On and after May 1st, 1922, the rates for display advertising in the Pine Cone will be $.50 per inch.

The cost of production, together with the increased circulation and quality of the paper, and the necessary additional equipment has made the above change imperative.

Six months ago much of the Pine Cone was syndicate matter; today we are putting out a paper filled with live news; new departments are constantly being created and a new interest on the part of our readers is being manifested. This all entails more expense in the production,—labor, equipment, stock, office help,—and if the Pine Cone is going to continue to serve the people effectively, substantial recognition must be made of its value as an Advertising medium.

We believe that our Advertisers are fully aware of the value of Pine Cone space and that they will be glad to continue at the new rates. We take this opportunity of thanking them in advance for their continued patronage and we assure the general public as well as our Advertisers that it will be our constant endeavor to supply our readers with the best and most valuable advertising medium to be found in the County.

OCEAN AVENUE IMPROVEMENT

The current rumors to the effect that the newly elected city board of trustees is to abandon or retard the proposed improvement of Ocean avenue, have no basis in fact. We have it on the word of Trustee Perry Newberry, speaking only for himself, however, that the work will go on to completion as provided for.

THE SOLDIER MEMORIAL

It's about time something was done to complete the Carmel soldier memorial begun with such a hurrah last Armistice Day, five months ago. The work in its present state is a disgrace and is the subject of frivolous and uncomplimentary remarks by residents and visitors.

Let it not be said that Carmel has forgotten those who served. If it is lack of funds, let's start something to raise the money. Let the committee who have the matter in charge tell the people what is wanted, and the people will provide.

VAGRANT IMPRESSIONS of the PINE NUT

Did Aladdin rub his magic lamp for me or did Mr. Devendorf but clean his windshield? Which ever it was, I was suddenly transported to Italy. There were the jagged rock-walled cliffs, and in the immediate foreground rising from one of them and yet a part of it, was an old moated grange or something. Probably "feudal castle" would come nearer to it. It looked as if it might have been built when Julius Caesar was Emperor. The color of the rock had really the grey tones of age; the angles of the roof and corners of the house had softened imperceptibly as if it had been weather beaten for centuries. Moss was growing in the chinks of the court and vines had covered the sides of the cliff.

"Come out of it," said J. F. D.

"Oh!" said I, and looked around.

'Twasn't Italy, but just the Highlands, and we were in front of that marvelous creation of Charles Sumner Greene, architect, and that artist-builder, F. E. Coleman of Pasadena. The owner is D. L. James of Kansas City, globe-trotter, litterateur, playwright, actor, and surely poet—for isn't a poem the expression of beauty, and what matters it if the beauty be that of character or redwood forests, or homes of rock and cement? Mr. James has spent many years in Europe and has made quite a study of architecture, so he knew pretty well what he wanted when he started in to make a house into a poem.

While I was thinking over all these prosaic details the witchery of the place was again stealing over me. We rubbed the lamp—or the windshield—once more, and this time, and right in front of us, was a great meadow of blazing California poppies. We all know the gray days with the old sea crooning seductively, mysteriously, unfathomably, and we've probably sometime known the sparkling days when the water just bubbles over with joy and titters at you, but did you ever see a gray day change suddenly into a sun-washed color debauch? Well, there it was: the orange poppies, the subdued greens of the fantastic old pines, the line of white surf accentuating the sapphire waters of the Mediterranean—excuse me, no! I seem to get my Geography mixed. Anyway, I don't believe even Italy can show California poppies or pines, so the Highlands scores two points there.

"Want to go through it?" sez Mr. D.

I jumped almost out of the car. Why do some people always take the joy out of life? Here I was living back in the ages when some old Roman general was returning from the wars and entering the courtyard of his country estate. I heard the clanking of the armor as he and his troops passed under the arched gateway.

"Sure, Mike," sez I.

"Well, we'll go up to the Inn and I'll get Mr. Parkhurst to show you through it. He'll give you all the real dope about the place," Mr. Devendorf responded amiably. So it happened that a half-hour later, the marine painter, Thomas Shrewsbury Parkhurst, and I tripped down one of those winding trails from the Inn and entered the James Courtyard—I mean the rock-paved entranceway in the rear of the House.

For an hour, Mr. Parkhurst became a combination guide, poet, painter, and I hung upon his words with my mouth open. He talked of bas-reliefs and embrasures and Venetian railings and doors, of Roman arches and decorative arras, and he was so interesting and helpful and enthusiastic that I began to see that this rock-walled fortress is loved by the people of the Highlands almost as much as by the Owner.

One wing of the house is devoted to the sleeping rooms for the family and the other is for the servants' quarters. They are connected with a study or den, and a large living room, which in massiveness and simple dignity is superior to any room I have ever seen.

The Italian influence is emphasized in the deep embrasures for the windows and the fireplaces and the book niches, in the wall decorations, which consist of bas-reliefs of the nautilus carved from our own chalkrock, in the recessed bowls for lighting effects, in the inlaid mosaic floors.

There is a real old Roman bath. Think of the joy of having a bathroom with no ugly plumbing fixtures staring at you. I was strongly tempted to start the water to gurgling out of the dolphin heads and to light a fire in the large fireplace and to anticipate my usual Saturday night pluage—but I didn't. I walked instead out on the balconies and caught the angles of beauty everywhere that my guide the painter caught.

"Nature abhors a straight line," said Mr. Parkhurst. "Do you think that anyone but an artist could have made that railing of stone with just the amount of curvature to fit into the picture?"

My jaw dropped again.

"Nope," sez I.

As we climbed the trail back to the Inn, Mr. Parkhurst quoted poetry to me. It was from Byron, I think, and was about,

"The chants in caverns green and gold,
The story that is never told,
Of cities dead
And ships at rest
And moons that shine upon her breast."

Then I saw Mr. Devendorf smiling a greeting to me from the veranda of the Highlands Inn, and I thought:

"Why, all of these people are poets. Mr. Devendorf is a poet or he couldn't have built this place or these wondrous trails that follow the hillsides or the winding roads that lead to the jeweled peaks; Mr. Parkhurst is a poet or he couldn't have put on canvas the beauties of the sea and shore; Mr. James is a poet or he couldn't have conceived his rock-walled house, so I shall always call this place: 'The Highlands: The Land of Poesy.'"

BOOKS AND AUTHORS

Review of Books in Carmel Library

If you have discovered and loved Hugh Walpole's "Jeremy", you will eagerly enjoy the youth, Peter Wescott, of Walpole's "Fortitude". For Peter is a serious, sensitive, affectionate youngster who dallies nightly at the village inn, where meet his grown friends, in spite of the cruel and inevitable beating which awaits him at home. At the inn he learns his life lesson: "It isn't life that counts, but the courage you bring . . . . ."

From the richness of Peter's youth where friends abound, the novel passes through boarding school days, several years of apprenticeship to a solicitor, then to London and nine years in a bookstall behind whose doors are matured revolutionary plots and romantic, piratical adventures. And Peter's first novel and its success, his marriage, his son whom he worships and who dies, the failure of the two next novels, the desertion of his wife, and no future left him but sinking to a bestial degredation which has ever seemed his inevitable inheritance. But a final triumph is his through one of the many friends whose devotion and admirations colors the book as it sustained Peter's life. The novel is charming—one of Walpole's earlier ones. Though it creaks on imperfect technical hinges, it is radiant with eagerness and enthusiasm for an idea and a marvelous hero.

"Dangerous Ages" of Rose Macaulay might be considered a companion volume to Edna Ferber's "The Girls" in that each is a transcription of the life of women representative of the three living generations. But "Dangerous Ages" transcends "The Girls" both in form and in matter. Rose Macaulay believes that all ages from sixteen to seventy are dangerous ages. And our interest is engaged, in addition to a grandmother over seventy who has lived to a tranquility beyond danger, by a mother of sixty, her children from forty odd to thirty, and by their families.

The volume has a well sustained plot concerned with the loss of the lover of daughter, aged thirty, to her niece, aged twenty. This plot, however, serves as the well executed central figure of a mosaic, all of the stones of which are full of interest and of beauty. Miss Macaulay does not possess the endearing whole-heartedness of Miss Ferber, but her volume radiates a charming technical excellence.

HIGHLANDS NOTES

Mr. and Mrs. Bartholemew of New York are the guests of Mrs. N. W. George at her recently completed picturesque home.

C. A. Clark, painter from New York, is here for an indefinite stay in order to make studies of our incomparable coast line. Mr. Clark is a marine painter and has received merited recognition for his work.

The Messrs. Kent-Fitzpatrick have returned from a motor trip to the Los Angeles and Merced localities. The palatial dwelling they are erecting at the Highlands has been delayed through inability to obtain finishing material.

Mr. Williams-Lyons, a Devenshire, England, artist, and who has been painting through the states, favored the Highlands with a fortnight's stay. Recently he left for the coast ports and intends to visit the Far East prior to return to his home.

There is talk of a Petition in Boots to the lair of the road commissioner to protest against the neglect of the main road to the Highlands. It appears from the amount the county and state derives in taxes from the property here that the holders are entitled to more consideration than they are getting. "Give us better roads" is the cry.

The completion of additions to the dining room at Highlands Inn now insures and attracts prompt and efficient service. The influx of visitors for the last month attests to the popularity of its home-like and progressive ensemble, and the recent acquisition of a radio outfit puts the guests in direct communication with all broadcasting stations.

FOREST THEATRE NOTES

At the last meeting of the board of directors the following dates were chosen for the production of "Caesar and Cleopatra": July 1, 3 and 4, being Saturday, Monday and Tuesday evenings. There will be no Sunday performance.

Individual coaching of the principals in "Caesar and Cleopatra" will commence May 1st, according to the statement of the stage director. Stage rehearsals of detached scenes will be held during the two weeks commencing May 25th, and general rehearsals will take place during the three weeks preceding the first performance.

Wanted—By the staff of "Caesar and Cleopatra," information leading to the capture of a flutist of fair ability; need be in and about Carmel only during the period of the production and the week previous.

Rewiring of the theatre's stage has been begun and will be completed as far as the funds will reach, within the next week. L. E. Gottfried, Jack Williamson, David Alberto, Lewis Josselyn and George Seideneck have volunteered their services for the work. The management has had the benefit of expert advice in this connection through the courtesy of Chas. J. Holzmuller, veteran stage electrician of San Francisco. President Kuster promises some new and beautiful lighting effects.

After the lecture the evening was concluded with the regular business and refreshments were served.

Mission Tea House Opening

The Mission Tea House opened for the season last Sunday. The management has changed, Miss Claribel Haydock, the owner, having leased the place to Tilly Polak and T. G. Fisher. The new proprietors have added a gift shop, where many specimens of Dutch pottery and antiques from Holland and Java are being shown.

The historical interest of the Mission Carmelo and the picturesque setting of the old adobe tea house in an orchard of blossoming pear trees—all this, added to the popularity of the hosts should insure a successful season.

These young people have started the movement for "Signless Scenery" by taking down all the road signs referring to their place of business. It is possible that others will fall into line and win from the real beauty lovers of Carmel an everlasting debt of gratitude—and much additional patronage.

The World by the Ears

A radiophone, the first semi-public one in Monterey county, has been installed at the Highlands. The guests can now sit in one of the large easy chairs and look across to the shores of China, and hear the wonderful Fairmount orchestra and Papa Joffre at one and the same time. At least, a representative of the Pine Cone had such an experience recently. One hears as clearly as if the sound came from the next room, and it is quite apparent that this development of communication is a success. The Noggle Electric Co. installed the apparatus.

Sip Your Tea and Talk It Over

The Esther and Louise Tea Room in the El Monte Verde Apartments had its formal opening on Sunday, April 9th. These charming young women, Misses Esther and Louise Hayes, have stamped the place with their individuality, that of a sweet, restful simplicity.

Very dainty and palatable are their meals and the service is all that can be desired. The home atmosphere is predominant and the ladies are to be commended for their initiative. They are specializing on luncheS for outing parties, and have on sale some rare old Javanese brass. LuncheS and dinners, as well as afternoon teas, are served, and we predict a successful season for them.

ARE YOUR ELECTRIC LIGHTS SATISFACTORY?

The voltage furnished by the Coast Valleys Gas and Electric Company in Carmel is 115 volts and this is the kind of lamp which should be used by electric lighting consumers in this territory.

On all standard lamps the voltage is plainly marked on a paper tag glued on the neck of the lamp. If lamps of higher voltage rating are used the light received from them will be dim and unsatisfactory. If lamps of lower voltage rating are used, they will burn out quickly and will not give the length of service to which the customer is entitled.

Any trouble with the electric service should be promptly reported to the district office of the Coast Valleys Gas and Electric Company in Monterey. If this is done, prompt attention will be given by employees of the company and the trouble removed as quickly as possible.

CARMEL'S DANCING SCHOOL MAKES HIT

Through lack of suitable accommodations in Carmel, the Swett-Perry School of Dancing gave its annual recital once more in Monterey. That the residents of Carmel are loyal to this institution was evidenced by their attendance and their appreciation of the fine artistry furnished by these young ladies was given in hearty and spontaneous applause of the individual numbers.

The performance was unique, colorful, individual throughout. To mention any one number would be an unfair discrimination, as each one was a gem.

Perhaps "The Birthday of the Infanta" was the most popular, owing to its strongly dramatic tendency.

Carmel is indeed fortunate in having this school here for its winter session. The young women who conduct it, the Misses Portia Mansfield Swett and Charlotte Perry, bring to our midst a refined and cultivated corps of girls and they unhesitatingly identify themselves with the life of Carmel, giving their time and talent generously to the local musical and dramatic affairs.

The Monterey entertainment marked the close of the winter season, and the young ladies go now to Steamboat Springs, Colorado, for the summer. We shall look forward with pleasurable anticipation to their return next January.

Carmel Humane Society Promotes Poster Contest

A prize will be awarded to the pupil of Sunset School in each of the three class rooms for the best poster illustrating kindness to animals or the animals' point of view. Posters are to be approximately 22x27 inches and may illustrate any phase of kindness and understanding of animals. Mrs. Florence Spoehr, Mrs. Clara Smith Lawler and Cornelius Botke will act as judges. The posters will be shown during Humane Week.

At a recent meeting of the society the following officers were elected: President, Miss Jeanie Bruce Brown; secretary, Miss Lillian McCalley; treasurer, Mrs. Sarah J. McChesney. Eight have signed the membership roll to date. Annual dues are $1.

Movie Star and Composer Visiting in Our Fair City

Miss Wilna Hervey, sister of Tom Cator and star of the Paul Gerson Movie Company, is spending a couple of weeks in Carmel. With her is Muriel Pollock, the New York composer, who is visiting California for the first time. She has just completed the musical score to a libretto by Guy Bolton, author of "Sally," which is going big on Broadway just now.

Both visitors are wildly enthusiastic about Carmel. They are members of the Woodstock artists' colony in New York.

One of the famous night water fetes that mark the height of the social season at Monte Carlo has been reproduced in all its colorful brilliance for "Foolish Wives," the million-dollar Universal picture coming to the Monterey Theatre next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The scenes were filmed in West Lake Park, Los Angeles, where Von Stroheim manoeuvred scores of decorated and electrically lighted boats while the cameramen took remarkable scenes by the light of very powerful searchlights.

Anne Bremer, one of the leading woman painters of the West, is in Carmel recuperating from a severe illness. She has lately been exhibiting in San Francisco. Among her paintings are a number of Carmel and Highlands subjects. A recent issue of the Chronicle says of her work:

Notice of Public Work

Notice is hereby given that the Board of Trustees of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, California, did, on the 21st day of March, 1922, pass a resolution of intention, namely Resolution No. 103, to order the following work to be done and improvement made in said city, to wit:

To close up that certain portion of Fourteenth Avenue in said City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, County of Monterey, State of California, bounded and particularly described as follows, to wit:

Beginning at the Southeast corner of Fourteenth Avenue and Camino Real in said city; thence East along the North line of Fourteenth Avenue 67.51 feet; thence S. 65° 04' W. 74.46 feet; thence North 31.39 feet to the point of beginning, as said avenue, street, and real property above described is shown and designated upon the map of Addition No. 2 to said city, on file in the office of the County Recorder of said County of Monterey.

That no land is deemed necessary to be taken therefor, and no district of lands will be affected or benefitted by said work of improvement, and none shall be assessed to pay the damages costs, and expenses thereof for the reason that it is proposed in the closing of said portion of said Fourteenth Avenue to exchange the lands occupied thereby, as above described, for a parcel of land of approximately the same dimensions, and particularly described as follows, to wit:

All that certain piece or parcel of land situate, lying, and being, in the City of Carmel-by-the Sea, County of Monterey, State of California, beginning at the Southeast corner of Fourteenth Avenue and Camino Real in the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea, California, thence East along the South line of Fourteenth Avenue 78.56 feet, thence S. 65° 04' W. 65.78 feet to the Northerly line of Santa Lucia Avenue; thence N 71° 29' W., along the Northerly line of Santa Lucia Avenue, 19.95 feet to the Northeasterly corner of Santa Lucia Avenue and Camino Real; thence North 21.4 feet to the point of beginning.

For further particulars reference is hereby made to said resolution of intention on file in the office of the City Clerk of said city.

Any person interested objecting to said work or improvement may make written objections to the same within ten days after the expiration of the time of publication of this notice, which objections shall be delivered within said period of time to the said City Clerk.

All of said proposed work and improvement shall be done in pursuance of an act of the Legislature of the State of California entitled "An Act to provide for laying out, opening, extending, widening, straightening, or closing up, in whole or in part, any street, square, lane, alley, court, or place within municipalities, and to condemn and acquire any and all land and property necessary or convenient for that purpose," approved March 6, 1889, and the amendments thereof.

Dated April 4th, 1922.

Superintendent of Streets of said City.

Many teachers from the San Jose School Department and their friends, have been spending their Easter vacation in Carmel. Mrs. Charles A. McCollom made a recent visit to San Francisco for the purpose of attending Grand Opera. She was fortunate enough to see "Madame Butterfly" with Edith Mason in the title role and Irene Pavloska singing "Susuki". Mrs. McCollom was very much impressed with Madame Pavloska's work, and she feels, that in view of the fact that so many of our local people are particularly interested in the career of this gifted artist, they would be interested to hear that in the estimation of many in the audience, Madame Pavloska was secondary, not even to the principal.
